Soldier urges remembrance of POWs and MIAs

BY MARSHA TAYLOR

Maj. Frank P. Brown, a test operations officer at the U.S. Army Strategic Defense Command, is too young to have served in Vietnam or Korea or in the European or Pacific theaters of World War II, but that doesn't mean that he has forgotten his military predecessors who have.

"I think it's really important that Americans who are still listed as missing in action not be forgotten," he explains earnestly. "They were only over there doing a job. If there's a chance that any of them are still alive and being held against their will, we need to do everything we can to get them out."

Brown will be an active participant in many of the local POW/MIA Recognition Day observances to be held here this week. "These type of observances help keep people aware of the number of families that are still left in limbo waiting final word of a loved one's fate."

This year Brown is helping ready masses of helium balloons that will be released from Big Spring Park at 1 p.m. Saturday containing the names of more than 40 POWs and MIAs from Alabama.

Brown, the son of a Navy pilot, became involved in the local POW/MIA effort through his neighbor, Barbara White. He noticed her wearing a POW bracelet, and when he questioned her about it, he learned that her brother, Air Force Capt. Samuel James, was lost over Cambodia in the closing days of the war on April 18, 1973. He had also known a Navy friend of his father's, Lt. Cdr. Thomas Scheurich, who had been lost in Vietnam and never accounted for.

Personal knowledge of these men and their families sparked Brown's interest and support of the POW/MIA effort. He got involved and became more informed on all the official and unofficial initiatives being carried out to learn the fate of nearly 2,400 Americans still unaccounted for in Southeast Asia. Brown points out that the numbers never accounted for in the Korean conflict and World War II are even greater, approximately 8,200 and 78,750.

Brown also draws attention to the official U.S. government position on POWs and MIAs. Although the Vietnam conflict officially ended more than 16 years ago and 531 American prisoners of war were released following the signing of the Paris Peace Accord, enough evidence remains that more Americans survived the incidents which led to their loss than have been accounted for; therefore, the U.S. government maintains that every possibility will be investigated. Continual reports of sightings keep the hope alive that more POWs may yet be located.

As long as that hope is alive, Brown urges today's soldiers to remember these unaccounted-for comrades. "Being in the Army, we should have a vested interest in these missing men."

NOT FORGOTTEN — Brown has a POW/MIA commemorative coffee mug.

Weekly prayer breakfast has POW/MIA theme

A former prisoner of war was the scheduled speaker for this morning's prayer breakfast at the Post Chapel.

John L. Stensby of Huntsville, a retired chief warrant officer who was a POW during World War II, was slated to address the attendees at the ecumenical prayer breakfast held at 6:30 a.m. each Wednesday at the chapel. Sept. 15 is National POW/MIA Recognition Day.

This morning's program was "a special service of remembrance to the POW/MIA," said Chaplain (Maj.) David McLean.

The president signed a proclamation designating Sept. 15 as National POW/MIA Recognition Day and calling on Americans to join in honoring former American prisoners of war, those unaccounted for, and their families who have endured and still suffer extraordinary sacrifices.

In his memorandum, Secretary of Defense Dick

Cheney expressed his concern for the Americans who are still unaccounted for in Southeast Asia. Cheney asked that commanders at every level continue to emphasize the importance of the POW/MIA issue.

POW of three wars speaks Friday

Everyone is welcome to attend a program Friday at 7 a.m. at the Post Theater for POW/MIA Recognition Day.

Lionel "Cho-Cho" Pinn, who was a prisoner of war in three wars, is the scheduled guest speaker at the hour-long program planned by Support Troops. The 65-year-old Guntersville resident is a former first sergeant in Special Forces.

"He was a POW in the Second World War, Korea and Vietnam and escaped all three times," said CSM Gary Ensign of Support Troops. "And he speaks all over Alabama and down at Fort Benning (Ga.). He's quite a soldier."

Pinn, described as a full-blooded Indian, has nine Bronze Stars, the Silver Star, the Combat Infantry Badge with two stars (meaning three wars), was wounded eight times and has eight Purple Hearts.

He is among only 199 living veterans who have the Combat Infantry Badge with two stars, Ensign said.

Friday's program has been organized by Ensign and Lt. Col. Lawrence Bayer, commander of Support

Troops. "We're inviting everybody over here at the post who wants to come listen to him (Pinn)," Ensign said.

Contract competition goal within reach at MICOM

The Missile Command is ahead of last year's record-setting pace for competition.

"We've done very well this year, and projections are to obtain the 35 and a half percent goal," said Bob Chalmers of the Competition Management Office. "This is a significant increase over last year's 29 percent. Right now we're riding at 36."

Fiscal 1988 was a milestone year for competition at the Missile Command. Some 28.5 percent of MICOM's contract awards involved competition among potential sources. It was the most since the numbers started being tracked in fiscal 1982.

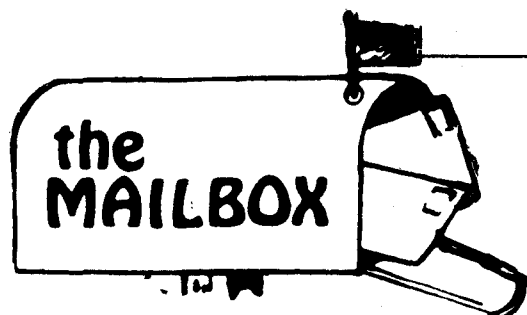

Competition means buying from more than one or two companies, as opposed to sole source or limited source. The idea is to get the best value for the Army.

Ken Loehr, acting competition advocate general of the Army, heard about MICOM's accomplishments during his visit here last Thursday. He was briefed on the command's competition accomplishments for FY 89 and its projections for FY 90.

Loehr met with Al Reeder, the director of procurement, Ernie Young, the deputy for procurement and readiness, Maj. Gen. Gus Cianciolo, the commander of MICOM and Redstone Arsenal, and Lt. Col. Robert Gaddi, the command's competition advocate. Gayle Walker, major items team leader in the competition management office, was action officer for the visit. Chalmers is team leader for secondary items.

Bad year ahead

Editor:

Hard times could fall on federal workers in 1990 because of the 1990 and 1991 budget deficit. At this point, the 1990 budget is $16 billion to $23 billion over the $100 billion the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings anti-deficit law allows. If the congressional committees cannot find a way to reduce the budget, this means we face a possibility of harsh across-the-board spending cuts. President Bush says no new taxes. At the same time, he promises more foreign aid, increase spending on our space program, and increase spending for the drug program. An across-the-board cut would cost the Defense Department a loss of 160,000 people, plus contracting out jobs. There are 79,000 jobs being eyed for contracting out in finance, such as processing payrolls to filing travel vouchers. The government agency never learns about contracting out. All you need to do is look at the RASA contracts — they are one big mess. That work should go back to in-house work, which would save the government a lot of money plus the embarrassment. Further, Congress and the president must find a way to bring federal pay back in line with the 1970 Comparability Act. The president's own pay committee said the federal employees are 28 percent behind their private sector counterparts.

Our health insurance lags behind the private sector. With no new revenue, 1990 will be a bad year for federal workers and many other programs.

We are in for a real fight ahead to try to maintain our work force and our benefits. The AFGE needs your help and support. We represent 8,000 workers in the Huntsville area. If all employees join with us, we would have the number and finances to wage a heck of a fight. Without everyone's support, we will not be able to do for you the things that need to be done. I am serious, this is not just talk, it is time for action. It is up to you, and knowing you as I do, I feel sure you will do your part. I hope to hear from you in an affirmative way.

I am proud to be a part of you. We must unite for the good of all.

The president has signed the 3.6 percent pay increase for all GS employees. This is 1.6 percent less than the cost of living. Are you ready to fight?

Best of care

Editor:

I was a patient at Fox Army Community Hospital when I witnessed a life saving situation just as you would see on TV; only this was for real. A patient was in the bathroom and could not get back to his bed. Calling for assistance, Mr. Robert Lee, NA, Medical Surgical Ward, responded to the call. Trying to get the patient back into bed, the patient could not walk and collapsed in the doorway. Seeing that Mr. Lee needed assistance, I called for the nurse on duty, Ms. Betty D'Aunoy. It was about 0300 hours, I thought this patient was dead. Within minutes, the Emergency team arrived and all personnel were instrumental in reviving the patient and getting him back to bed. Once he was stabilized, he was taken to the ICU Ward.

I was impressed at the cool and professional manner in which Nurse D'Aunoy and Mr. Lee performed with the Emergency team. There was very little conversation during this time, this team knew exactly what to do.

Witnessing this team in action, at 0300 hours, gave me a sense of confidence in that we, as patients, were getting the best of care. The nurses on the Ward; Wilson, Thomas, Johnson, Teeters and D'Aunoy and their assistants, made me feel good as a patient. I was in good hands. Col. Snyder, you should be very proud of your staff, I know, I am.

Store's customers pay for shoplifting

Investigators apprehended an individual suspected of shoplifting more than $4,000 in electronic items from the Post Exchange.

The Investigations Branch of the Provost Marshal Office used this case to point out that citizens can help prevent larcenies from the PX.

"Chances are, during many of his activities, someone observed him doing things out of the ordinary and said or did nothing. 'It's not my business,' 'It's the PX's loss' are comments the cops often hear," said the Investigations Branch in a news release. "Wrong...the PX never loses. No business that sells things ever loses or they are not a thriving business for long. They just pass the costs on in the form of higher prices to guess who. Not everyone gets away with that much property before getting caught (but many do), however a lot of people see it going on and say nothing.

"So the next time you see some cute kid or sweet old lady in the act of taking something, just remember, 'The PX never loses...but you just did.' "

RECOVERED — These electronic items were recovered after stolen from the Post Exchange.

Worker puts concerns to music

George Wells, an auditor at the U.S. Army Strategic Defense Command, put to music his concern for the plight of American POWs and MIAs.

He wrote the words to "Don't Let Them Be Forgotten," copyright 1971 by Tidewater Music Company, and MSgt. Artie Davis provided the music.

Wells has written a number of songs during the past 25 years, many an outgrowth of his concern about world conditions. In the early 1970s, Wells and Davis also had another song dealing with POWs/MIAs recorded entitled, "A Letter to Hanoi." More recently in 1988, his song "Missing Children" was recorded in Nashville, and he will soon have a song coming out about the homeless.

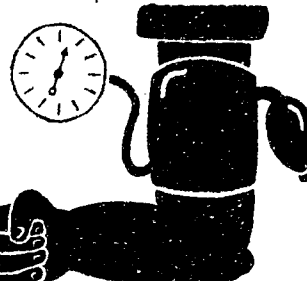

Here are the words to "Don't Let Them Be Forgotten":

Wives that face sorrow day after day
Children too young to understand why daddy went away
In Heaven or Hanoi, we don't know for sure
It's a shame what these men and their family endure.
Don't let them be forgotten, those brave and faithful men
Who for the sake of freedom heard their country's call.
They had a job to do, so now we're asking you
Don't let them be forgotten, for they gave their all.
Let's all work together and do what we can
To get our men home from that distant land.
Let's show the families how much we really care.
Be sure the missing in action is not missing from prayer.
Don't let them be forgotten, those brave and faithful men
Who for the sake of freedom heard their country's call.
They had a job to do, so now we're asking you
Don't let them be forgotten, for they gave their all.

War prisoner's greatest desire became survival

BY RUDI WILLIAMS

Donald J. Rander was homesick. Two months in war-torn South Vietnam had created in him a fierce desire to see the wife and children he left behind. So he re-enlisted in January 1968 to get a free 30-day round trip home.

But a twist of fate delayed the Army staff sergeant's trip more than five years. North Vietnamese soldiers captured him three days before his scheduled flight.

Rander and his fellow prisoners of war, those who came home and those still missing in action, will be honored for their sacrifices during POW/MIA Recognition Day on Sept. 15.

"I was half packed, with Christmas presents and all, when the attack came," said Rander, now a retired warrant officer working for the Army's Foreign Counterintelligence Activity at Fort Meade, Md. "I was supposed to leave on Feb. 4, 1968, but I was captured on the first."

All his efforts to evade capture by enemy forces were futile. Enemy rockets and mortar rounds exploded around the villa Rander and his four intelligence-gathering counterparts occupied. They peeped out of windows as enemy troops whisked past the house. Low in ammunition and seriously outnumbered, the five beleaguered Americans crept next door to consolidate their small force with four civilians.

Rander's small group survived a night filled with shelling and sporadic gunfire, although he was knocked unconscious and another soldier was seriously injured when a rocket slammed through the roof during the night. "It was like Custer's last stand the next morning; all the North Vietnamese in the world seemed to be outside the door," he said. "We were out of ammunition, surrounded by the enemy and two men were dead; so we went downstairs and surrendered."

Hopes of visiting his family thwarted, Rander's greatest desire became survival.

With their hands tied behind their backs with telephone wire, the Americans were taken across backyards and over fences to a house down the street. Six of the remaining seven men were forced into a small shower stall; the wounded man was placed on a table. Rander cut his ankle on some barbed wire while helping to carry the wounded soldier. The cut became infected during the long trek over mountainous terrain and through the leech-infested jungle.

After two days, the enemy soldiers headed north with their prisoners, leaving the wounded man behind. When American infantrymen retook the town about two weeks later, they rescued him.

Four reached North Vietnam about three months later; two had escaped on the trail north, Rander explained.

Hairy times plagued the route to North Vietnam. That's when enemy soldiers protected them from other enemies, such as the villagers who demanded the prisoners be beheaded.

"Initially, the North Vietnamese were not brutal," said Rander. "I think they wanted to take prisoners. There were some threatening gestures — 'lie still,' while pointing a gun at you and that sort of thing."

But that changed when they reached a camp near the Laotian border. That's when the interrogation began.

"I was immediately singled out and told by one of the English-speaking cadre that Martin Luther King Jr. had been assassinated by (former President Lyndon B.) Johnson and the CIA," said Rander, the only black in that camp. He later used the North Vietnamese's impressions of how blacks were treated in America to his advantage.

Rander, afraid of revealing two classified projects he had been working on before his capture, agreed to talk. But he didn't disclose anything about the two classified projects. "When they asked me the names of commanders and stuff like that, I used names from the roster of the 1951 World Series Dodgers: All the infielders were officers — lieutenant colonel and above — and all the outfielders were NCOs."

When the North Vietnamese couldn't get the answers they wanted, tormenting interrogations ensued. Yelling and screaming echoed across the compound from prisoners being tortured. When Rander refused to answer questions, his torture was kneeling.

"Try kneeling on the ground for six hours in 95-degree weather with sweat dripping out of your eyelids," Rander said. "I'd eventually keel over, and they'd start beating me. I'd cover up enough to protect my head, my kidneys and my privates and just let them beat on me. When I had enough of that and had the circulation back in my legs, I'd let them put me back on my knees. This went on for about three days. At night, they would put my feet in stocks and harass me all night."

While kneeling in the blistering hot sun, Rander made up a story that eventually got him off the hook. When "Rat Face," his interrogator, started questioning him again, Rander looked up and said, "Don't you realize that I'm just a black soldier and the white man don't tell me nothing?"

"I threw the propaganda back to him," Rander said, laughing. "He just looked at me, and I laid it on thick: 'The white guys go out and do all that important stuff. They wouldn't let me do anything like that.'"

The interrogator, with a smirk on his face, looked at him and said, "Get up."

"I couldn't stand up," Rander said. "So he told me to sit on a stool. I pulled myself up onto it."

"I didn't have any more problems with Rat Face," he said, laughing.

During captivity, a heavy, doughy French loaf-type bread made from a poor grade flour spiced with rocks, insects, rat feces and other impurities was one of Rander's main staples. That and a bland vegetable soup, three months of cabbage soup and three months of pumpkin soup rounded out his menu. "Not the diet you'd try to live off of unless you were trying to lose weight," Rander mused.

Rander, who spent several months in solitary confinement, said he went from 190 pounds down to about 125, but his captors fattened him up to 148 pounds before his release on March 27, 1973. "I saw

Hispanic luncheon to feature Medal of Honor winner

BY SANDA LAGER

Roy P. Benavidez, a retired master sergeant who received the Medal of Honor, is the scheduled speaker for the Hispanic Heritage Month luncheon at the Challenger NCO Club on Sept. 20.

The 11 a.m. luncheon is one of the events planned for the celebration which runs Sept. 15 through Oct. 15 to recognize the contributions made by Hispanics in American society.

Benavidez, a green beret, was wounded 28 times during two tours of duty in Vietnam. He was awarded the Medal of Honor for a series of daring and valorous actions on May 2, 1968, while assigned to the 5th Special Forces Group (Airborne) in the Republic of Vietnam.

BENAVIDEZ

He was cited for saving the lives of at least eight men while voluntarily joining his comrades who were in critical straits, for subjecting himself constantly to withering fire and refusing to be stopped despite numerous severe wounds.

Benavidez is the only non-commissioned officer ever honored with a West Point full brigade review. An armed forces training center at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station in Texas is named in his honor.

Benavidez recounts his Vietnam experience in his autobiography, "The Three Wars of Roy Benavidez," written in collaboration with Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Oscar Griffin. Published in 1986 by Simon and Schuster, the book is available in paperback at the Redstone Post Exchange for $4.95.

Benavidez, raised in a south Texas barrio, travels around the country making personal appearances, speaking to civic groups, schools and appearing on television talk shows. Married and the father of three children, the 49-year-old Benavidez lives in El Campo, Texas.

Hispanic Heritage Month will also feature a fiesta on Sept. 29, at 6 p.m. at the Recreation Center, a Spanish Mass/Confession at the Bicentennial Chapel at 11:30 a.m. on Oct. 6, with closing ceremonies planned on Oct. 14 (site and time to be announced).

Volunteer appreciates support

A volunteer aerobics instructor at Pagano Gym says she appreciates the support her class has received.

Elodia Fonseca, who took aerobics classes for two years, conducts her class at 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday and 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the gym.

"Thanks to all the people that are coming to my aerobics class, it became very popular in just a couple of months," Fonseca said. A resident here for nearly four years, she is also active in the Family Child Care Program at Redstone.

She and her husband, Sgt. Luis Fonseca, are natives of Mexico. They participate in Hispanic Heritage Month activities at Redstone and say they are proud of performing dances to Mexican folk music. They have two children, Luis and Karessa.

Search for missing American servicemen continues

BY MARY PETERSON

Sept. 15 is National POW/MIA Recognition Day — a time to honor America's returned prisoners of war and to rekindle the resolve to account for American servicemen still missing.

Since some 590 American prisoners of the Vietnam War were released from North Vietnam in March 1973, the Department of Defense and the U.S. government have strived to account for 2,344 Americans still listed as prisoners or unaccounted for.

Since 1974, 391 sets of remains have been returned to the United States from Vietnam, of which 209 have been determined to be those of missing Americans. Since the mission of retired Army Gen. John W. Vessey, special presidential emissary, to Hanoi in August 1987, the Vietnamese government has repatriated 227 remains. Of those, the Central Identification Laboratory in Hawaii has positively identified 65 as American servicemen listed on the Missing in Action and Prisoner of War rosters.

"We have an enormous task before us made more difficult by the political realities of Southeast Asia. No matter how difficult, our dedication to this search must not wane."

— Dick Cheney
Secretary of Defense

The most recent identification was on Aug. 1 when the Department of Defense released the names of the remains of three service members.

Identified were Air Force Col. Bobby Kirby of Atlanta, pilot of a B-52 that crashed in 1972 in North Vietnam; Army Maj. Robert G. Cozart Jr. of Hammond, La., pilot of an O-1G helicopter shot down in 1970 over South Vietnam; and Army CWO 2 Michael B. Varnado of Ferriday, La., who was piloting a UH-1H helicopter when it crashed along the Cambodian/South Vietnamese border in 1970. Varnado was reported to have survived the crash and died in captivity.

The most recent repatriation occurred July 31 when 15 sets of remains believed to be those of U.S. servicemen were turned over to U.S. military officials. As in previous actions, the Central Identification Laboratory will examine the remains to establish positive identification.

The United States is also making efforts to gain access to North Korea where an estimated 6,000 Americans are still unaccounted for — including 389 who were listed as prisoners of war.

In his address to the members of the National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action in July, Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney reinforced DoD's strong support for the recovery effort.

"We have an enormous task before us made more difficult by the political realities of Southeast Asia. No matter how difficult, our dedication to this search must not wane," Cheney said.

"We continue to take very seriously all reports of live prisoners. The answers to this most vexing issue lie with the Indochinese governments, not here in Washington," Cheney said. "The burden is on them to supply satisfactory answers to this sensitive question."

War

more meat in the two months before our release than I did in five years," he said.

Rander, like most prisoners in his group, fared much better on holidays — May Day, Ho Chi Minh's birthday, Tet (the North Vietnamese New Year) and the American Christmas day. "They'd really go all out on those days," Rander said. "We'd get turkey buzzard — a good portion of meat. On Tet, they'd give us traditional North Vietnamese foods, which was a special meal for us. We'd get a little more meat and something they called 'Bahn Tet,' a rice cake with a little pork fat in the middle. It's really tasty."

"On your birthday, you'd be given a couple of extra cigarettes and maybe some extra food," said Rander, adding that cigarettes were important and scarce. "We were given three cigarettes a day, and I would steal paper from them and make six cigarettes out of each one. It was part of surviving — I was beating them at something by stealing their paper."

When he returned to the United States in 1973, the changes that had taken place in the world dumbfounded him. He had missed the Afro hairstyles, black power and women's liberation movements, and a host of other things. Rander received a warrant officer appointment in March 1974. He retired on Sept. 1, 1983.

His days as a prisoner of war changed his attitude about life. "I took a good, long look at Don Rander, and I didn't like what I saw," he said. "I think I'm now more honest with myself and with other people. I don't sweat the small stuff; most people get all upset about money. They can't do this or that, or this is blocking their way. That doesn't bother me anymore — that's all trivial, material stuff."

(Editor's note: Sgt. Maj. Rudi Williams writes for American Forces Information Service.)

Notre Dame Fighting Irish get nod to stay unbeaten

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Michigan has been waiting a year for this weekend. The Wolverines finally get their chance for revenge against last year's national champions, the Notre Dame Fighting Irish. In the 1988 season opener, Notre Dame survived with a 19-17 decision over Michigan when the Wolverines missed a 49-yard field goal attempt.

Notre Dame went on to compile a 12-0 record. Michigan finished at 9-2-1. Both are highly ranked again this year; Notre Dame opened with a 36-13 win over Virginia in the Kickoff Classic on Aug. 31.

Led by quarterbacks Michael Taylor and Demetrius Brown, Michigan returns 10 starters on offense and nine on defense. The Wolverine strike force also includes speedy receiver Greg McMurtry and running back Tony Boles, the fourth leading rusher in Division I-A last year.

Everything points to a Michigan win. The Wolverines have the incentive — the quest for a national championship — and the memory of last year's close loss. They also have the home field this time, Ann Arbor, Mich. Yep, just about everything points to a Michigan victory. But it won't happen. The pick here is...Notre Dame.

Last week's picks resulted in a 19-10-1 record, bringing the season totals to 31-17-2. Here are Skip's Picks for selected games this weekend in college football:

TECHNICAL AND MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS

Southeastern offers specializations in the following areas for professional programs at the master's level:

- Applications Programming
- Applied Mathematics
- Business Management
- Computer Systems
- Contracts Management
- Defense Systems
- Electronic Systems
- Electro-Optical Systems
- Engineering Management
- Missile Systems
- Operations Research
- Radar Systems
- Signal Processing
- Software Engineering
- Space Systems
- Systems Engineering
- Systems Management
- Telecommunication Systems

At the doctoral level, professional specializations are available in the following areas:

- Computer and Software Systems
- Defense Management and Technologies
- Management and Business Systems
- Missile and Space Systems
- Optical and Electro-Optical Systems
- Research and Engineering Management
- Sensor Systems and Signal Processing
- Systems Engineering and Analysis

For persons with considerable prior studies toward the doctorate, other specializations might be developed for degree-completion programs.

NEW PROFESSIONAL PROGRAMS

Southeastern now offers two additional professional degrees: the Master of Electrical Engineering and the Master of Software Engineering. Programs leading to these degrees involve 36 units of credit, and emphasize advanced design techniques.

The M.Elec.Eng. degree curriculum is based on the standards for advanced electrical engineering programs as specified by the Accrediting Board for Engineering and Technology. Included are specialty options in radar, electro-optics, signal processing, computers, and telecommunications.

The DoD Software Engineering Institute has recently announced a recommended curriculum for advanced software engineering. The M.Sw.Eng. degree program from Southeastern fully conforms to this recommendation and prepares persons to assume a position of major responsibility in this field.

CAREER ADVANCEMENT OPPORTUNITIES

If you are a professional working in engineering, management, or applied science, Southeastern provides an excellent selection of courses for updating and career development. The offerings may be taken as continuing education or used in the development of advanced degrees. Our faculty members are all professional practitioners, and this is our key to relevance: instructors who practice what they teach!

Southeastern is now in its 14th year of service to this community. We have thousands of very satisfied customers, and our graduates are found in key positions throughout industrial, governmental, and business organizations. Let us show how we can be of assistance to you. During the 1989-90 academic year, Southeastern will offer full programs in all areas.

MASTER OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.) is a widely recognized credential in management. Southeastern offers a program leading to this degree with options in general management and the following:

- Contracts Administration
- Management Science
- Software Management
- Systems and Programs

All of the courses are taught by professional practitioners and provide a balance between theory and applications. While the program is demanding, it can be completed on a part-time basis in two years or less.

AN INDEPENDENT PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL

Southeastern Institute of Technology is an independent, nonprofit institution of higher education, providing continuing education and professional degree programs for mature, working adults. Fully approved by the Alabama Department of Education, Southeastern offers programs leading to the following degrees:

- Master of Electrical Engineering
- Master of Software Engineering
- Master of Business Administration
- Master of Science in Engineering
- Master of Science in Management
- Master of Science
- Doctor of Science
- Doctor of Engineering
- Doctor of Management

Southeastern's central facilities are located at 200 Sparkman Drive, Cummings Research Park. The mailing address is P.O. Box 1485, Huntsville, AL 35807. For additional information, telephone

Aerospace engineer enjoys playing bagpipes

BY SKIP VAUGHN

Mike Lyon hasn't been the same since that spring of 1987.

He'd heard bagpipes played before, but not like this — not live. It happened at Panoply, Huntsville's annual outdoor festival of the arts. When Lyon discovered that the piper wanted to start a band and give lessons, he decided to go for it.

Lyon, an aerospace engineer in the Propulsion Directorate, started taking lessons from Bill Chamberlain until Chamberlain moved to San Diego. "Fortunately there were several other students of his who were much further along than I was and they kept momentum going for the band," he said. "Recently we've linked up with an excellent piper from Nashville, named Joe Miller. Joe is now the pipe major of the band and he has over 20 years experience."

"The band is very much alive and well. Two years ago there were perhaps five of us playing pipes. According to the most recent count, there's something on the order of 17 people at various stages of learning to play the pipes," Lyon said. "We also have approximately five drummers in the band now, once again at various stages of drumming. Our goal is to form a competition band that can go to most of the Highland gatherings around the Southeast and compete."

"If you hear a good player on pipes, it can really send chills up and down your spine. And if you hear a really bad player on pipes, it can send chills up and down your spine, too."

— Mike Lyon

They call themselves the Huntsville Highlanders Pipe Band. Like Lyon, most are local residents. His fellow pipers include Don Davis of TMDE Support Group. Several of the members are from Nashville, several from Decatur, and one from Birmingham. The lead drummer is Alan Vaughn of Atlanta.

"We're kind of beginning to be noticed in town and getting requests for our public performances; and typically we'll do one a month now," Lyon said. He practices on his own at least a half hour each day. "The more the better," he added.

"They say you can learn to play the pipes in about a year but it takes you 20 years to master them, so it's a constant training process. There are performers who've been playing for 40 years, and those are the ones you try to model after. If you hear a good player on pipes, it can really send chills up and down your spine. And if you hear a really bad player on pipes, it can send chills up and down your spine, too," he said, laughing.

Lyon, 40, is originally from Montgomery. His parents, Bob and Ora, reside in Albertville where his sister, Mary Frances Yarbrough, also resides. He hasn't found any Scottish in his background, but he's looking. "I'm trying to work my genealogy right now, and there are some clues but I haven't made the final scientific connection yet," he said. Lyon received his bachelor's degree in 1971 and his master's degree in 1979, both in aerospace engineering from Auburn University.

He went to work in 1971 on turbojet engine design at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in West Palm Beach, Fla. Two years later, he moved to Huntsville and worked four years for Thiokol Corp. at Redstone. He was in the advanced design group of Thiokol's engineering department. In 1978, he moved to southern Maryland and worked for the Navy as an engineer and later manager at the Naval Ordnance Station at Indian Head, Md. Lyon returned to Huntsville in 1987 to work for the Army — just in time for Panoply. He is a GS-14 engineer in the Propulsion Directorate which is part of the Research, Development and Engineering Center.

Besides bagpipes his hobbies include listening to music of all kinds — folk, classic and oldies, he said — and occasional woodworking. He and his wife, Caroline, have three children: Rachel, 15 (and a half), a junior at Grissom High School; John, 13, a freshman at Grissom; and Anna, 11, a sixth grader at Whitesburg Middle School. He welcomes calls at home, 880-1089, from anyone interested in Scottish piping or drumming. The band meets each Thursday night at 6:30 at Westlawn Middle School.

"Usually for performances whether it be in a solo capacity or with the band, we are all kilted," Lyon said, referring to the traditional Scottish garment. "Right now the members of the band all wear their family kilt. Hopefully in the near future, if we can round up a sponsor, we can get band kilts."

What do others think of his bagpipe hobby, a somewhat unique pastime? "I am convinced that people are split into two camps: those that love pipes and those that can't stand it," Lyon said. "And you really find which side people are on when you crank them up; some will linger to hear you and others will move elsewhere."

Top soldiers to be recognized

Redstone will honor its NCO of the year and soldier of the year at a luncheon Thursday at the Challenger NCO Club.

Sgt. James M. Steverson and PFC Michael J. Hall will be recognized at the luncheon and awarded the Army Commendation Medal.

Brig. Gen. Larry R. Capps, MICOM deputy commander, will be guest speaker for the event, which begins at 11 a.m.

Huntsville Mayor Steve Hettinger is expected to attend the event, which last year drew around 400 guests.

More than 30 businesses and clubs have donated gifts during the past year to the post soldier of the month and NCO of the quarter.

Many of the sponsoring businesses and clubs will attend the luncheon to present gifts to the yearly winners, as well as to be recognized by the Army for participation in the program.

Entertainment will be provided by the Huntsville Symphony Combo and singer Spec. Dan Middlebrooks of the medical detachment.

Tickets for the luncheon are still available and may be purchased by calling the Command Sergeant Major office at 876-1874.

Post Soldier of the Year has many varied interests

BY SANDA LAGER

A 19-year-old soldier who says he really enjoys military life has been named post soldier of the year at Redstone.

PFC Michael Hall is assigned to the medical detachment at Fox Army Community Hospital as an operating room specialist. He joined the Army in December 1987, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., where he graduated outstanding and was promoted to E-2.

He completed advanced individual training at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, in February 1988. In May he began on-the-job training at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C., and came to Redstone in July 1988.

Hall graduated from Dodgeand High School in Juneau, Wis., in June 1987, where he was president of his senior class. His favorite subjects were math, history and drama, he said.

Hall has a penchant for acting and said he "performed in every school play we had" while a student at Dodgeand High.

He has also performed in community playhouse productions, and played the role of Tavia in "Fiddler on the Roof," the King of Siam in "The King and I," and was a member of the choir in "Guys and Dolls."

Hall was a member of the school choir, where he performed solo and duet in swing and jazz numbers, was a member of the Spanish club and the debate club.

A sports enthusiast, Hall played varsity football two years in high school and was a member of the school's wrestling team which competed in state competition during his senior year.

Hall enjoys winter sports — snowmobiling, hockey, ice-skating — and also participates in bowling, baseball and softball.

Hall grew up on a small farm in Reeseville, Wis., which has a population of around 500. His father, L.C. Hall, is a retired signal supervisor for Milwaukee Railroad and his mother, Audrey, is a housewife. He has four older sisters and "numerous neices and nephews," he said.

Hall describes his summers on the farm as "filled with chores" — baling hay, taking care of cows, goats, hogs, rabbits and working in the vegetable garden.

He also worked in a local supermarket as a check-out clerk and stock boy, he said.

While at Redstone, Hall has completed two quarters at Calhoun College and plans to continue studies toward completion of an associate degree. Future plans include completing work toward a four-year nursing degree through the ROTC scholarship program.

Redstone's NCO of the Year likes meeting challenges

BY SANDA LAGER

Keep a positive attitude, take on jobs other don't want and never withdraw from a challenge.

Words to live by and a pattern to follow for success in any endeavor, believes Sgt. James M. Steverson, Redstone Arsenal's non-commissioned officer of the year.

"These qualities have served me well throughout life," said the 23-year-old soldier who has spent four and a half years in the Army.

Steverson believes those elements, coupled with a "strong character," will help him to weather any storm in life.

"I really like the military life and I'll probably stay in. My father retired from the military so I grew up as a military dependent," Steverson said.

His father, James V. Steverson, retired from the Army at Fort Polk, La. Both his father and his mother, Jasmine, are civilian employees at Fort Polk.

Born in California, the new NCO of the year spent most of his years growing up in Louisiana. He graduated from Evans (La.) High School, attended McNeese State University in Lake Charles and received an associate of science degree from City College of Chicago while stationed in Germany.

He plans to continue his college work next semester and work toward a four-year degree in business. He hopes to eventually complete work on a master's degree in business administration.

Steverson came to Redstone six months ago as training NCO for the 95th Maintenance Company. He graduated from advanced individual training at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, Colo., as a calibrator.

He lists his interests as fishing, hunting and sports. He played on his college baseball and tennis teams and participated in intramural basketball and football.

While in high school he was an all-district player and captain of the basketball team.

Steverson and his wife, Cynthia, have an 18-month-old son, James Brandon. He also has three brothers and one sister.

STEVESON

College degree credits compiled

BY PAM ROGERS

Members of the Redstone community who don't possess college degrees but wish they did can find out just how close they are to completing the requirements by attending a meeting Thursday at the Recreation Center on Patton Road.

The 1 p.m. meeting, sponsored by the Installation Education Center, will feature Lou Leone of the University of the State of New York Regents Degrees program.

The program, which grants credit based on previous course work, CLEP and DANTES tests, military training, and experiential learning, are especially suited to many soldiers, according to Janeen Rosenberg, a counselor at the center.

"They take everything you've done, put it all together, package it and award a degree," she said.

Unlike most colleges, Regents does not have a residency requirement, she said.

The school awards associates and bachelors degrees in liberal arts, business and nursing, and technology degrees in computer science, electronics and nuclear technology.

"The people I see that definitely would benefit from this are all calibration specialists, all personnel in the medical field, all recruiters, anyone E-6 or up and warrant officers," Rosenberg said.

The meeting will begin with an overview of the program and degrees offered, then Leone will sit down with individuals to determine how much credit they may already have.

"They need to have copies of completion certificates, or DD form 295 or DD form 214, any grade reports, transcripts — official or unofficial, CLEP or DANTES results to help him do a workup.

"After he's done a workup, all military personnel can see a counselor at the education center, and we can advise them of what's needed to complete the degree requirements," Rosenberg said.

Some of the ways to complete requirements include tests, courses at one of the Learning Resource Centers, or courses on videotape that will be available around the end of this year, according to Rosenberg.

Anyone interested in attending Thursday's meeting should call the Education Center at 876-3465.

Brock elected to Toastmasters board

SANTA ANA, Calif. — Donna Brock, an electronics engineer for the U.S. Army Strategic Defense Command in Huntsville, has been elected to the board of directors of Toastmasters International.

Brock was elected during the organization's 58th Annual Convention in Palm Desert, Calif., Aug. 14-18.

Her leadership positions in Toastmasters International range from club president to district governor. She has been a Toastmaster for 10 years.

Brock is the past president of the North Alabama chapter for the Federally Employed Women.

Toastmasters International, a non-profit educational organization, is devoted to teaching public speaking and communication skills. More than 3 million people have participated in the organization's program since its inception in 1924. The organization currently has 150,000 members in 6,900 clubs in 50 countries, including two clubs in Moscow.

Sidewinders win championship of summer bowling league

BY JUANEZ ALEXANDER

Wednesday night proved to be one of the most exciting as the summer league for Missile Logistics Center bowling drew to a close. Only three games separated the top four teams. As the bowlers prepared for position round, it was anybody's game.

The champions would not be decided until the last ball was thrown and the scores tallied.

After losing the first game by 150 pins, the night looked grim for the Sidewinders. Luck slipped in, however, and stayed through the next two games as they split 2-2 with the Picwicks.

Billy Hicks shot a whopping 61 pins over his average for Picwicks while teammate Jacqui Keibler rolled 22 pins over her average. The Picwicks captured second place behind the Sidewinders. Lorenza Elliott shot a 516 series for the Sidewinders.

Lucky Strikers defeated Ten Pins three games. Hank Lemke shot a 511 series for the Strikers while teammates Edie Lemke rolled 36 pins over her average and George Roberts bowled 22 pins over his. Siebert Lusk rolled 22 pins over his average for Ten Pins while teammate Clara Randall bowled 31 pins over her average.

The Pacers grabbed three games from Bama Boomers. Glendor Wilkerson bowled 29 pins over her average while teammate Mildred Blackshears shot 24 pins over her average.

High Rollers slid three games by Sparemaker Roosevelt Readus and Rodney Crawford both shot 24 pins over their averages for High Rollers while teammate Luz Crawford rolled 22 pins over her average. Teresa Burroughs shot a 531 series for Sparemakers.

There will be a meeting for the Wednesday Night Mixed Winter League (formerly MLC league) at 5 this evening at Redstone Lanes. Anyone interested in joining the winter league should call Roosevelt Readus 876-4989 or Billie Kuhn at the Redstone Lanes 876-6634, or attend the meeting.

The Wednesday Night Mixed Winter League will start at 5 p.m. Sept. 20.

New fishing club open to all bass anglers

A new bass fishing club — open to anyone with a valid Alabama state fishing license, age 16 years and older — is being formed here.

An organizational meeting for the Redstone Bass Busters is set for this evening at 6 at the NCO Club. "And we invite everybody that's interested to come out to the meeting," said Don Larimore, who is helping to get the group started. "At that meeting, we're going to be voting and electing officers and finalizing bylaws for the club."

Membership dues will be $25 for the first year then $15 per year thereafter. The reason for the $25 opening dues is to meet "the expenses we're going to have starting out," Larimore said.

"The Redstone Bass Busters will be totally independent of any other organization," he said. Unlike the Military Bass Anglers Association — which draws its membership from active duty or retired military, veterans, Reserve, National Guard, or Defense Department civilians — the new group will be open to anyone with a valid Alabama fishing license. Prospective members age 16 to 18 must have written consent from their parent or guardian.

"I'm director of North Alabama MBAA and director of Alabama Bass Association so I've got my hands full. I'm just going to help them get started and get it off the ground," Larimore said. "Within three months, we look forward to having close to 100 members."

The new club will have a 14-inch limit on fish which should cut down on the number of younger fish that are caught, he said. The state limit is 12 inches.

For more information about the Redstone Bass Busters, call Norman McKinney 876-7387 (home 830-6954) or Larimore at 876-4137.

Enlisted soldiers looking forward to new club

BY MARIANNE CLINEDINST

Sounds of heavy equipment rumbling and hammers banging are in the air. Construction of the new enlisted soldiers club is well on its way.

Anticipation is running high. Some soldiers offered their views on the old club and about how they would like the new one to be different.

PFC Tony Smith of A Company, 73rd Ordnance Battalion, said, "The new club will be better depending on how it will be set up, if it's set up the same way this one is it won't be any better."

"If they could make the club more interesting instead of always having the same things going on, I will spend more time at the new club," said Pvt. Robert Wilhoite of B Company, 832nd Ordnance Battalion.

PFC Jeff Zinnel, of A Company, 73rd Ordnance Battalion, said, "The club we have now is really run-down and it will be great to have somewhere nice to go."

Other soldiers agreed that if the club was nicer they would be able to enjoy it a lot more. "If you make the club bigger but don't improve what's on the inside it won't be any different," said Pvt. Jon Goldsmith of D Company, 832nd Ordnance Battalion. "The people who work here are great, there just needs to be a nicer atmosphere."

"They need to have different rooms for various activities," said Pvt. Jeff Ballog of C Company, 832nd Ordnance Battalion. "This club has a TV, a juke box, video games, and pool tables in one room so everyone drowns each other out."

"They also need to have at least two different rooms for music. There is only one room here and they only play one type of music. If you don't like it, tough luck because you won't hear anything else."

Other suggestions included getting lights for the dance floor, having a bigger dance floor, and getting rid of the go-go dancers to create a nicer atmosphere.

In general the enlisted soldiers don't want anything elite — just somewhere nice and clean to go and relax a couple of hours.

Your car cost you plenty.
Get insurance you can count on.

Ask your buddies about GEICO.

Plenty of companies sell car insurance. But, ask some people you serve with and you'll find that one out of five military members insures with GEICO. GEICO provides protection tailored to the needs of today's military. One call or visit is all it takes. A GEICO Representative will give you a free rate quote in minutes. A low initial down payment starts your coverage on the spot.

You also get extras like free collision damage waiver protection for rental cars used on government business. Free property damage liability coverage when you drive government owned or leased vehicles. Reduced-rate coverage when your car is stored over 30 days, and extra GEICO benefits like:

- Convenient payment plans make budgeting a breeze
- Your choice of money-saving deductibles
- Fast-action, 24-hour claim service in the U.S. or Canada
- One call can arrange for car insurance overseas

- Military drivers have insured with GEICO for over 50 years
- A GEICO office is near most major military installations

Insist on quality car insurance from a national company that knows the needs of military drivers. Stop in or call your local GEICO Representative today for a free rate quote.

Scenes from the Double Iron Triathlon

Redstone Arsenal played a big role in the fifth annual Double Iron Triathlon held Sept. 3-4.

For the first time ever, the 224-mile bicycle leg of the grueling international event was held on post. The race also included a 4.8 mile swim and a 52.4 mile run.

Ken Wiseman, 34, of Lakeville, Conn., finished first in record time: 21 hours and 46 minutes. Thirty-three of the 46 competitors finished the race. Gisela Kaltenhofer, 33, of Austria, was the lone female finisher in 34:46 for 30th place.

Marines from Redstone Arsenal turned out to cheer on one of their own: Gregory Meacham, 40, a police officer from Lynchburg, Va., who served in the Marine Corps from 1967-71, including two tours in Vietnam. They joined him about a mile from the finish line and ran with him, singing cadence as they went. Meacham finished 25th in 31:27.

Editor's note: The photographs accompanying this story were provided by Peggy Glanz.

HOW TO PLACE A REDSTONE ROCKET CLASSIFIED AD

The Redstone Rocket provides the Rocket Classified section as a free service to active duty military personnel and army civil service personnel at Redstone Arsenal.

To place a Rocket Classified ad:

Type or legibly print a brief description of what you want to sell on an 8 1/2 x 11 inch piece of paper (no 3 x 5 cards or torn paper will be accepted).

Only home numbers will be listed in the advertisement. No office phone numbers will be accepted. Sign the ad, and list some type of identification, such as a building number, badge number, etc.

The deadline is 5 p.m. on Friday before the Wednesday publication. Ads will run for one week only. You may resubmit them.

The Redstone Rocket will not accept classified ads for business. A business classified ad or for those who are not military or civil service is $5.75 (1 column x 1 1/4 inches, bordered, about 20-30 words).

If you submit more than one classified at a time, place each one on a separate piece of paper.

Mail Rocket Classified ads to: Sara Grant & Associates, Attn: Redstone Rocket Classifieds, P.O. Box 5351, Huntsville, Alabama 35801.

The Redstone Rocket will not accept any classified ads by telephone.

The Redstone Rocket is not responsible for typographical errors or for omissions in this section. Classifieds will be published as space permits. First come, first served basis.
